These kings and queens had some knowledge of the Old Speech and of magery. Some of them were certainly wizards, or had wizards to advise or help them. But magic in The Deed of Enlad is an erratic force, not to be relied on. Morred was the first man, and the first king, to be called Mage..the story of Morred, called the Mage-King, the White Enchanter, and the Young King. Morred came of..and mills and business, and Golden told him so. "Singing time is over, son," he said. "You must." His voice shook a little now, a vibrato, and his eyes were not sad, but angry..remained seated while they exited, a file of silhouettes floating by before the outside lights.. "Yes," Irioth said. "I understand. You are a kind woman." She was talking about him, about his not. "But," said Dragonfly and stopped, caught by the argument. Mothers were born to worry about their children, and women were born never to be content. There was no reason why he should listen to the litany of anxieties by which Tuly hauled herself through life. Of course she thought a merchant's life wasn't good enough for the boy.
