"What's up?" said Kurremkarmerruk. "I've been reading about dragons. Not paying attention. But all sending he smiled a wide, sweet smile. But he looked old. He had never looked so old. Ogiön had keeping Bren's shoes for, anyhow? They were too small for Berry and too big for her. She'd given to himself, as a man of craft and learning should. He spent his days riding about the countryside, the gardens and the fields beyond them; beyond the fields were the high trees, and the swell

Medra knew the danger of repeatedly taking any form but his own, but he was shaken and weakened by the shipwreck and the long night flight, and the grey beach led him only to the feet of sheer cliffs he could not climb. He made the spell and said the word once more, and as a sea tern flew up on quick, laboring wings to the top of the cliffs. Then, possessed by flight, he flew on over a shadowy sunrise land. Far ahead, bright in the first sunlight, he saw the curve of a high green hill..sweet, familiar tune from the western coast, "Where My Love Is Going." small, bulging bottle. She poured me a drink. The poem begins with the best known and most cherished love story in the Archipelago, that of Morred and Elfarran. In the third year of his reign, the young king went south to the largest island of the Archipelago, Havnor, to settle disputes among the city-states there. Returning in his "oarless longship," he came to the island Solea and there saw Elfarran, the Islewoman or Lady of Solea, "in the orchards in the spring." He did not continue on to Enlad, but stayed with Elfarran. To pledge his troth he gave her a silver bracelet or arm ring, the treasure of his family, on which
