Crawford was the only one to look up when the lock started cycling. The two people almost tumbled over each other coming out of the lock. They wanted to do something, and quickly, but didn't know what. In the end, they just stood there silently twisting their hands and looking at the floor. One of them took off her helmet. She was a large woman, in her thirties, with red hair shorn off close to the scalp. "You're not trying, babe," forehead broke bloodlessly apart He would rub and rub fur-flier still till the brown hide skinned back. I heard the door open.
