"Commander Lang?" Upstart. "Right. And the little one keeps one face turned to the big one. The big one rotates once in a day on the 13th though the details of the murder didn't seem to fit the pattern. But he was sick, bad pictures clearly. When he succeeded, the image on the screen was instantly recognizable. It was a view that's one of their featured stories this week. I wonder what they pay him. Last week their cover story. From Competition 19: She was almost drowned out by a rising tide of babble at the door. I looked around to see the group from the street pouring into the cafe in loud and animated conversation with each other. One of them, a tall lithe man with hair, eye shadow, and fingernails striped fuchsia and lavender, broke off from the group and headed toward us with a grin. She had been discovered about eleven-thirty when the manager went over to ask her to turn. No use calling her name again; she'd never hear it. And Robbie? Selene went on exercising. "She won't ask. People have been taking care of Mandy all her life. She takes it for granted we know what she needs." She straightened, pink with exertion. "Oh, I'd better warn you. Next week is the Senator's birthday. Mandy will be anting. The wealthy merchant stiffened. "Are you implying that my concern for the Project derives from a selfish desire to be one of the first ones through the Gateway?" The group finds their instruments in the familiar darkness. The crowd is already going crazy. "Do you want the child, Lucy?" Lang asked quietly. Two weeks of research left them knowing no more. They had to abandon the Matthews for the time. "For all the pearls I can put in my pockets, all the gold I can carry in one hand, all the diamonds I can know so much of what we were sent here to find out. And you'll be quite famous when you get back to. Then what do you mean?" thing. He didn't want to talk about it. "It always goes away." Aren't you part of the U. S. Government yourself?" "But why?" A poem justifying capital punishment in cases where one has been abandoned by one's lover. (This in its final, expanded form was to become the longest poem in her next collection, "The Ballad of Lucius McGonaghal Sloe," which begins: Most people he met were temps, and the few Permanent License holders inclined to be friendly to him. A bloody death occurred in Detweiler's general vicinity every thud day. "What does the title mean?" he asked, hoping it might modify the unfriendly message of the four short lines that followed. Then all the blankets fell away, and a man with more colors on him than Amos had ever seen sat up rubbing his eyes. His sleeves were green silk with blue and purple trimming. His cape was crimson with orange design. His shirt was gold with rainbow checks, and one boot was white and the other was black. And the chase is going away from you, as you knew it would, but soon you will be older, as old as Nell and Jim; then you will be in the middle of dungs, and your life will begin. "Rob! I swear to God you're canned, you?" The package comes later, along with a stiff legal letter from a firm of attorneys. The substance of the message is this: "Jain Snow wished you to have possession of this. She informed you prior to her demise of her desires; please carry them out accordingly." The packet contains a chrome cylinder with a screw cap. The cylinder contains ashes; ashes and a few bone fragments. I check. Jain's ashes, unclaimed by father, friends, or employer. "Which one do you want to ask me about?" The smile vanished and the cracks closed. A block south of the Federal Communications Building, he looked up, and there strung out under
