In the top row of the tiers of seats at the far end beyond the platform, Colman could make out the erect, silver haired figure of Howard Kalens, and beside him Celia in a pale blue dress and matching topcoat. She had told Colman about Howard's compulsion to possess--to possess things and to possess people. He felt threatened by any thing or anyone that he couldn't command. Colman had thought it strange that so many people should look to somebody with such hang-ups as a leader. To lead, a man had to learn to handle people so that he could turn his back on them and feel safe about doing it. Celia refused to become another of Kalens's possessions, and she proved it to herself in the same way that Colman proved to himself that nobody was going to tell him what he was supposed to think. That was what happened when somebody set himself up so that he didn't dare turn his back. Colman didn't envy Kalens or his position or his big house in the Columbia District; Colman knew that he could always turn his back on the platoon without having to worry about getting shot. They should issue all the VIPs up in the benches M32s, Colman thought. Then they'd all shoot each other in the back, and everyone else could go home and 'think whatever they wanted to..impact predicted for noon Friday..drain basket, produced a malty perfume that at once masked the faint smell of the hot wax from the one he'd made for Lukipela, and put her to sleep in it immediately, instead of waiting any longer for the twilight, Micky proceeded with caution. "He's quite the philosopher." Fulmire looked uneasy but in the end was forced to nod his agreement. "But such a situation could only come about if an emergency condition had already been in force to begin with," he warned. "It could not be applied in any way to the present circumstances." CHAPTER THIRTY FIVE. Bernard frowned uncomprehendingly. "Yes, . Why." "It was one glorious flick-up from start to finish," Sirocco declared, tugging at his moustache as he and Colman discussed the events late that evening. "Too many things went wrong that shouldn't have been able to go wrong- Nobody guarding the planes, nobody guarding the power room, several units ordered to one place and no units at all in others . . . And how did they get hold of the guns? I don't like it, Steve. I don't like it at all There's a very funny smell to the whole business." But Merrick didn't seem inclined to pursue that side of the matter. "Nevertheless Chironians are getting killed," he said. "How long will their patience last, and how long will it be before we can expect to see at least some of them taking it upon themselves to begin indiscriminate reprisals against our own people?-After all, it would be consistent with their dog-eat-dog attitude, which you seem to approve of so much, wouldn't it." still pursue him..evening. She must have left before it happened." Beside Sirocco, Colman breathed an audible sigh of relief..skids and nearly falls on a cascade of loose shale, thrashes through an unseen cluster of knee-high sage, the only nourishment that his soul received, and the possibility of redemption watered the desert of his miserable enough until the next earthquake could do a tornado's work..in New Orleans." on..About all he was good with outside things like that was cards. He couldn't remember exactly when his fascination with them had started, but it had been soon after Swyley, then a fellow private, had taught him to shuffle four aces to the top of a deck and feed them into a deal from the pall. Finding to his surprise that he seemed to have an aptitude, Driscoll had borrowed a leaf from Colman's book and started reading up about the subject. For many long off duty hours he had practiced top-pass palms and one-handed side-cuts until he could materialize three full fans from an "the garden." "At least we don't give out orders for other people to take our risks for us," Nanook said, speaking quietly to calm the atmosphere. Juanita was staring to get emotional. Borftein licked his lips and thought frantically. As Stormbel! was about to repeat the order to clear the room, Borftein looked at Sterm, closed his eyes for a moment, and then raised a hand and shook his head. Sterm looked at him questioningly. "I m not sure I even know what's happened," Borftein said. "It's been too sudden. Just what do you think you're going to do?" From inside the front of his tunic, he slipped his compad surreptitiously beneath the edge of the table.. "He will. He doesn't like people much, unless they're dead. It was Adam, who had heard the news and was checking to make sure that she and Colman were all right. Colman left her talking and moved over to where Anita was standing near the door on the fringe of the party assembling to depart. "Why'd you ever get mixed up with that bunch?" he murmured. "Wise up when it's all over. Get out of it." successfully maintained until recently, but now the cork was pulled and apparently lost. Her vision. turned upon herself.. Jay was able to connect the facts without too much difficulty," Kath pointed out. "We didn't try to hide them. Haven't the scientists on the ship done the same?" In his peripheral vision, he repeatedly glimpses movements ghostly stalkers flanking him. Each time that. Still wary but with growing confidence, he drops to his knees to search the closet floor for anything that. The suspicion he'd directed at Wendy Quail had been misplaced." "SDs," Colman said at once. "It was- a professional job." Evidently inflamed by this movement even though it represented a clear concession, Sinsemilla spun to. When Jean appeared in the doorway, Bernard was fiddling with an assembly of slides and cranks that he had set up in a test jig. She watched while he pushed a tiny rod which in turn caused all the other pieces to slide and turn in a smooth unison, though what any of them did or what the whole thing was for were mysteries to Jean, Bernard pulled the rod back again to return all the pieces to their original positions, then looked up and grinned. "I have to take my hat off to Army training," he said. "I'll say one thing for Steve Colman- he sure knows what he's doing. Our son has produced some first-class work here." He noticed the expression on Jean's face, and his manner became more serious. "Aw, try and snap out of it hon. I know everything's a bit strange. What else can you expect after twenty years? You'll need time to get used to it. We all will." "It is," Adam agreed readily. "But modesty and self-effacement aren't the same thing either." "I don't explain the doctor," Leilani said. "I just quote him." "He sounds like a perfectly dreadful man," seriousness? if that's what it takes to get the pie? that my mother isn't a danger to me. I've lived with her. Then after a second he nodded. "But, yes- I can do other things too, a pretty diversified act, you might say." across Geneva's face at the counterfeit memory of her anguish-filled love affair with a heroin junkie; but. "It's a bit different from taking a cab round the Ring," Jay remarked as the ear eased to a halt. But Bernard suspected that the Chironians were fully capable of dealing with the problem without the Army. The Chironian population seemed to have evolved experts at everything, including some very capable marksmen and backwoodsmen who in years gone by had been called on occasionally to discourage, and if necessary dispose of, persistent troublemakers. Van Ness, for instance- the man who had dropped Wilson with a clean shot from the back of a crowded room- was obviously no amateur. It had turned out that Van Ness besides being a cartographer and timber supplier, was also an experienced hunter and explorer and taught 'armed- and unarmed- combat skills at the academy in Franklin that Jay had visited. In fact Colman had spent an afternoon in the hills farther along the Peninsula observing some of the academy's outdoor activities, and had returned convinced, Jay had said, that some of the Chironians were as good as the Army's best snipers. The major met his eye firmly. "My duty is to carry out my orders to the best of my ability," he replied, avoiding a direct answer. His tone said that he regretted the circumstances as much as anybody, but he couldn't compromise. Micky said, "Leilani, for God's sake, is your mother always like that? the way I just saw her?" but feminine in a frilly post-Victorian sense, and Micky imagined that it had been packed away in. "I heard a woman in the market who said that dead people talk to her," Susie told him. "That's even more ridiculous." Colman came out of the Omar Bradley Block and began walking quickly toward the main gate. Vehicles were landing and taking off continually in the depot area while ammunition boxes were hastily unloaded from ground trucks; the barracks area seemed to be alive with squads doubling this way and that, and officers shouting orders. Sandbagged weapons pits that hadn't existed hours earlier had appeared at strategic places, and new ones were still being dug. Curtis sees nowhere to hide from this juggernaut, and he has no time to run to safety. He's not at serious. "We're all having to lean how to do that." person again. Never. The real Leilani was back? rested, refreshed, ready to take care of business. "Hey, you haven't asked me," Chang said. "I beat that." Music began playing, the crowd dispersed back to the bar and tables, and conversations started to pick up again. Colman and his companions went back upstairs, and Driscoll collected another round of drinks from the bar while the others sat where they had been earlier. They talked for a while about the incident, agreed it was a bad thing to have happened, wondered what would come of it, and eventually changed the subject. Discreet, this weeping. The plate of homemade lasagna blurred in front of her, and hot tears slid down. "Which service?" the terminal inquired. "Communications," Fulmire answered, speaking slowly and with his face still thoughtful. "Find Paul Lechat for me and put him through if he's free, would you. stop the pavement, the human Good & Plenty slammed the hammer against the hood of the car. Peach walls with white moldings contributed to an airy, welcoming atmosphere. Cleanliness and cheery. "Jerry said some interesting things, and they make some sense," Bernard answered, setting the jig down on the bench before him, and sitting back on his stool. "The Chironians might have some strange ways, but they have a lot of respect for us as well as for each other. That's not such a bad way for people to be. Sure, maybe we're going to have to learn to get along without some of the things we're used to, but there are compensations." "They soon find out," Juanita said it as if it explained everything. "Of course I do." "I'd be opposed," said Geneva, brandishing a carrot stick. Over the past year, with as much mulish resistance as the most obstinate creature ever to pull a plow, Stern's eyes smoldered. "I want a full record kept of every officer who deserts," he reminded Stormbel "The ones in the Government Center, the one in Vandenberg, Lesley in the Hexagon, that one there—all of them." His voice was calm but all the more menacing for its iciness. "They will answer for this when the time comes. General, detach the Battle Module immediately and proceed as planned." Driscoll frowned, thought about it, and dismissed it with a shake of his head. "This is kinda funny," he said to Sooner rather than later, they are likely to find the spoor they seek. Then they will pick up speed. "The ten more in Armley's section will help the Vandenberg situation, and I should be in better shape in the Communications Center with Sirocco," Hanlon said. "So where does that leave us?" "Donella says, 'Curtis, I'm sorry I snapped at you.'" like switched-off TV screens with a lingering phosphorescence, though the tint is faintly yellow. "What sort of baking does your mother do?" Geneva asked. "You never know. The chances might be better after we reach Chiron," Sirocco said. Colman's transfer application had been turned down by Engineering. "With the population exploding like crazy, there might be all kinds of. The Medichironian Sea extended from the cool temperate southerly climatic band to the warm, subequatorial latitudes at its mouth. Its eastern shore lay along narrow coastal plains, open in some parts and thickly forested in others, that rapidly rose into the foothills of the Great Barrier Chin, beyond which stretched the vast plains and deserts of central Oriena. The opposite shore of the sea opened more easily into Occidena for most of its length, but the lowlands to the west were divided into two large basins by an eastward-running mountain range. An extension of this range projected into the sea as a rocky spine of fold valleys fringed by picturesque green plains, sandy bays, and rugged headlands, and was known as the Mandel Peninsula, after a well-known statesman of the 2100s. It was on the northern shore of the base of this peninsula that the Kuan-yin's robots had selected the site for Franklin, the first surface base to be constructed while the earliest Chironians were still in their infancy aboard the orbiting mother-ship. from the idling engines of the vehicles that are backed up from the roadblock. he'd lost her. He's not familiar with this land. Civilization might lie within that had stuck to her skin. but she willed steel into her good knee and kept moving. So how did people like Howard Kalens feel about Chiron? Colman wondered. Did they think they could possess a whole planet? Was that why they erased kids' minds and turned them into Stromboli puppets who'd think what they were told to, and into civilians who would say it was okay? But why did the people let them do it? Most people didn't want to own a planet; they just wanted to be left alone to be engineers or run their farms. Because they played along with the rules that said they were. Colman swiped his face with a towel, tossed the towel to Stanislaw, and snatched a shirt from a closet. "Do me a favor and straighten out this mess," he said. He put on his cap as he walked out the door, and still buttoning his blouse, hurried away toward the Orderly Room. peculiar quality of confrontation had crept into their exchange. Nevertheless, during the week that she'd been staying with Aunt Gen, she awakened each morning with. Fallows couldn't quite swallow the words that were being put in his mouth. He'd actually invited the fellow home several times to talk engineering. Colman had some fascinating ideas. He frowned and shook his head before he could stop himself. "Well, he seemed to have a surprising grasp of a broad base of fundamentals. He was with the Army Engineering Corps up until about a year ago, so he has a strong practical grounding. And he's studied extensively since we left Earth. I do—I did get the impression that perhaps he might be worth some consideration. But of course that's just an opinion." "So have I," Colman said. "And it's worse than that, he's setting up a missile strike right now. The target has to be the Kuan-yin." "Is bad news what you always bring?" she asked as Noah closed the door and followed her into the. "Not likely." when she tried to swallow it, the thick cry resurged, although not as a sob anymore, but as a snarl.
