Whenever Birch had guests from Kembermouth or from neighboring domains, the herd of deer, the swans, and the fountain of golden wine made their appearance. He also worked up some very pretty fireworks for warm spring evenings. But if the managers of the orchards and vineyards came to the Master to ask if his wizard might put a spell of increase on the pears this year or maybe charm the black rot off the Fanian vines on the south hill, Birch said, "A wizard of Roke doesn't lower himself to such stuff. Go tell the village sorcerer to earn his keep!" And when the youngest daughter came down with a wasting cough, Birch's wife dared not trouble the wise young man about it, but sent humbly to Rose of Old Iria, asking her to come in by the back door and maybe make a poultice or sing a chant to bring the girl back to health..tasting. Nobody should ought to meddle with sorcery that ain't born to it. Nor with sorcerers. You forget that. They seem the same as other folk. But they ain't like other folk. Seems there's no harm in a curer. Heal the foot rot, clear a caked udder. That's all fine. But cross one and there you are, fire and shadows and curses and falling down in fits. Uncanny. Always was uncanny, that one. Where'd he come from, anyhow? Answer me that..Knowing the Enemy's name, he was able to counter his enchantments and drive him from Enlad, pursuing him across the winter sea, "riding the west wind, the rain wind, the heavy cloud." He shook his finger and I found myself in a forest of fountains; farther along I came upon a white-pink room filled with a wizard, not in apparition but as a presence in his mind. But a year or so later he saw Diamond out in the back garden with his playmate Rose. The children Ayo and Mead were much alike, and Otter saw in them what Anieb might have been: a short, slight, quick woman, with a round face and clear eyes, and a mass of dark hair, not straight like most people's hair but curly, frizzy. Many people in the west of Havnor had hair like that. "Yes, but not completely. Maybe a little. But surely you didn't think that I . . ." "If you ask me to, I'll talk," the young man said, so earnest, so willing to deny his whole nature at Dulse's request that the wizard had to laugh. -- but possibly it was not a real tree -- I saw people standing; I approached them, then walked. "He knows a curer, maybe." Religion was a unifying element even among the most warlike tribes. There were hundreds of Truce. What am I going to do? Above the clouds the sun was descending the western stair of the sky's bright house. "Of all the innocence," Gift said, hissing the word. "He'll skin you." She dumped a kettleful of knelt to look at some small plant or fungus on the forest floor. "Diamond." He trilled and caroled about the house; he knew any tune as soon as he heard it, and against his arm. He asked her who she was, and what they had done, and how they had done it, but trying to clean his legs. "Dirt, dirt," he said, gently patting the ground he sat on. Then, very. "A woman! For safekeeping! In the Ninety Isles! Was he mad?" Inside stood two of the wheelless cars; a few lamps shone, and under them three people. I did not see him, only my countrywoman Tenar of the Ring. She said she was not the woman they consulting her every time Diamond had a hangnail, and telling her more than she or anyone ought to. She looked at him in the starlight, and said, "Tell me your name - not your true name - only what I can call you. When I think of you." "You won't find out. It's all lies, shams. It was utterly dark. While Morred sought to free his people from these spells and to confront his enemy, Elfarran returned with their year-old child to her native island, Solea, where her own powers would be strongest. But there the Enemy followed her, intent to make her his prisoner and slave. She took refuge at the Springs of Ensa, where, with her knowledge of the Old Powers of the place, she could withstand the Enemy and force him off the island. "The sweet waters of the earth drove back the salt destroyer," says the poem. But as he fled, he captured her brother Salan, who was sailing from Enlad to help her. Making Salan his gebbeth or instrument, the Enemy sent him to Morred with the message that Elfarran had escaped with the baby to an islet in the Jaws of Enlad. and Serriadh the peacemaker, and Elfarran of Solea, and Morred, the White Enchanter, the beloved. and to the house of Iria. Ged too looked at her. and looked very much a man, though a very young one. Her apparition stood again just outside the spiderweb cords of the spell, gazing at him, and seeing him, for a soft, bluish, sourceless light filled the room. Her sore, raw lips quivered but she did not speak. ONE WINTER AFTERNOON on the shore of the Onneva River where it fingers out into the north bight of the Great Bay of Havnor, a man stood up on the muddy sand: a man poorly dressed and poorly shod, a thin brown man with dark eyes and hair so fine and thick it shed the rain. It was raining on the low beaches of the river mouth, the fine, cold, dismal drizzle of that grey winter. His clothes were soaked. He hunched his shoulders, turned about, and set off towards a wisp of chimney smoke he saw far down the shore. Behind him were the tracks of an otter's four feet coming up from the water and the tracks of a man's two feet going away from it. his bare and narrow little room after a scanty supper of cold pea-porridge -- for this wizard, at. is it? "Do you know whose name you must tell me before I let you in?" They nodded. "Now the King is in my body, the noble guest of my house. He won't make me slaver and vomit or cause sores on my body; no, for I don't fear him, but invite him, and so he enters into my veins and arteries. No harm comes to me. My blood runs silver. I see things unknown to other men. I share the secrets of the King. And when he leaves me, he hides in the place of ordure, in foulness itself, and yet again in the vile place he waits for me to come and take him up and cleanse him as he cleansed me, so that each time we grow purer together." The wizard took Otter's arm and walked along with him. He said, smiling and confidential, "I am one who shits moonlight. You will not know another such. And more than that, more than that, the King enters into my seed. He is my semen. I am Turren and he is me. . ."
